FIRMNESS.

BY PHŒBE CAREY.

Well, let him go, and let him obey—
I do not mean to die;
I guess he'll find that I can live
Without him, if I try;
He thought to frighten me with frowns,
So terrible and black—
He'll stay away a thousand years
Before I ask him back!

He said that I had acted wrong—
And foolishly beside;
I wont forget him after that—
I wouldn't if I died.
If he can be so cross with me
I know I'm not an angel quite—
I don't pretend to be.

He had another sweetheart once,
And now when we fall out,
He always says she was not cross,
And that she didn't pout.
It is enough to vex a saint—
It's more than I can bear—
I wish that girl—I care where,
Well, I—
—thinks that she was pretty, too—
Was beautiful as good;
I wonder if she'd get him back
Again, now, if she could?
I know she would, and there she is—
She lives almost in sight;
And now it's almost nine o'clock—
Perhaps he's there to-night.

I'd almost write to him to come—
But then I've said I won't;
I do not care so much, but she
Shan't have him if I don't.
Besides I know that I was wrong,
And he was in the right;
I guess I'll tell him so—and then—
I wish he'd come to night.

H—Fetch on your harrow.
G—Freeze the young blood—
H—Git out, you tarnel old refrigerator.
G—Make thy two eyes like stars start from their spheres—
H—Dew tell! You couldn't tell about what time they'd start?
G—Thy knotted and combined locks to part—
H—I've parted with about all of them locks now, 'specially on the top of my head.
G—And each particular hair—
H—I aint particular to a hair.
G—To stand on end like quills upon the fretful porcupine.
H—Neow look a here, old poppy, don't fret your porcupine over me.
G—But this eternal blazon must not be to ears of flesh and blood. List, list, oh, list!
H—(Getting angry)—Yeou be gol darned! Did'nt I 'list in Sol Peabody's Hum Guards when yeou fled into Canada, takin' your draft with ye? A VENERABLE STOVE.—The oldest stove in the United States, if not in the world, is that which warms the hall of the capitol of Virginia in Richmond. It was made in England and sent to Virginia in 1777, and warmed the house of Burgesses and the General Assembly for sixty years before it was removed to its present location, where it has been for upwards of thirty years. It has survived three British kings; and has been contemporaneous with four monarchies, two republics and two Imperial governments of France. The great republic of America has been torn by civil war, the branches partly healed; and still this old stove has remained, in the midst of it all.

IT is stated as a singular coincidence that Major General Grant, a Scotch officer in the British army, in 1778, defeated Gen. Lee in command of the American forces in New Jersey, and was afterward promoted to the rank of Lieutenant General, in the British army.—He died very old at his seat at Ballendallock near Elgin, Scotland, in 1806.

GOLD was accidently discovered a short time since in Hancock county, Kentucky. An assay at the Philadelphia mint, developed $45 17 per ton of gold, and $58 to $80 per ton of silver and other precious metals. A Philadelphia company has bought the ground.

GEN. CUSTIS LEE, the son of Gen. Robert E. Lee, has been elected President and Professor of Mathematics, its appliances and Military Science, in the Maryland Agricultural College. Pay, $2,500 per annum and a residence.

GEN. GRANT has sent a check for twenty six thousand dollars to a real estate man, at St. Louis, to be used in the purchase of the old farm owned by his father-in-law, on the Goose road, ten miles from the city, as a final homestead for himself and family.

GEN. PENNYPACKER, of Chester county, has received the appointment of Colonel of the 37th U. S. Infantry, declined some time since by Gen. John F. Hartranft.

JOSH BILLINGS says there is nothing more touching in this life than to see a poor, but virtuous young man struggling with a moustache.

GEN. A. J. HAMILTON, of Texas, has located in Harrisburg, Pa., and will soon commence the practice of law there.

REPORT

On the best method of organizing a School—read before the Teachers' Institute at Hookstown, Nov. 22, 1866.

BY J. WEITZEL.

Mr. President and fellow Teachers:—The subject assigned to me upon the present occasion is one of great importance—one which demands of every teacher his most serious consideration and earnest attention, viz: What is the best course to pursue in organizing a School? I do not expect to be able to solve this problem without the aid and assistance of my fellow teachers. I may, perhaps, point out a course to be pursued, but to make it the best course will require your investigation and criticism, in order to free it from [illegible] and supply its deficiencies. The importance of a good organization is not easily over-estimated. System appears to be a Law of Nature, without which nothing will work well. All kinds of machinery must be systematic. For instance, a watch must have all its parts systematically arranged and adapted to each other, so that there will be a harmonious working of the whole in order to have a good time piece. And a steam engine can answer the end for which it was designed only when all parts of the machine are in perfect order. In like manner a school must be "completely organized, systematized and fully employed," or disorder and confusion will be the result.—Therefore, we are led to inquire, 1st, What are the elements that go to make up a school? and 2d, How may they be reduced to system, so that they will produce united action toward the accomplishment of that grand and glorious object, the education of youth? First, then, the elements which compose a school, and concerning which the teacher should be as well informed as possible before entering upon the discharge of his duties, are the following, viz: 1st, the territory embraced in his school limits; 2d, parents; 3d, pupils; 4th, the school house and school furniture; 5th, text books; 6th, attainments of pupils; 7th, classification; 8th, general arrangements. In the second place we will notice, briefly, each of these in their order. The teacher must inform himself with regard to the distance his pupils have to travel to reach school. This knowledge will enable him to deal with the evil of tardiness better than he could do without it. He may also learn from it the duty of dismissing school at an earlier hour sometimes of a very stormy evening, that the children may reach home before dark. By acting judiciously in this respect, he will secure the confidence of parents, which will be very much in his favor. He must make the acquaintance of parents and learn of their appreciation of education and the importance they attach to the school, from which he may infer the amount of co-operation he is likely to receive from them.—Also, he will be enabled to unfold his plans that he has in view in a way that will be sure to gain the hearty assent of parents; and this, if not "the one thing needful," is at least one thing needed in order to teach school successfully. By visiting parents the teacher will likewise learn much of the 3d element—the pupils that are to make up his school. He will see where parental authority is respected and obeyed, and where it is treated with contempt or disregarded, and will thus be enabled to determine pretty accurately who will and who will not give him trouble in school, for children taught to obey their parents will not be likely to rebel against the authority of the teacher. When commencement day arrives, the teacher should be in his school room early, in order to examine the house and its accommodations, and to bet them in order before the pupils gather. He should also be careful to speak to each pupil as he enters, and have each one feel that the teacher has noticed him in particular; then whatever time there is to elapse before calling the school to order should be spent in pleasant conversation with the pupils when they desire it, but more especially in observing their conversation and actions among themselves. This time will not likely pass by without his learning something of the human nature with which he is to deal. The time having arrived for calling his school together, he should give notice of the same by ringing a little bell.—(Every teacher should have one.) The pupils will soon be seated. The teacher should then rise and address them in a pleasant conversational style, stating briefly the purpose for which they met, the object designed, and the advantages to be obtained thereby. Then lay down this one fundamental principle, which underlays all other regulations that may from time to time be needed, viz: 'Do right.' This, if properly presented, is sufficient at present. Also, the teacher should have some plan arranged to give employment to his pupils as soon as he is through talking to them, for it is not well to have many moments spent in idleness. Some such plan as this may be adopted: Let them prepare for reciting the first lessons in their respective books. The teacher should then pass round among his pupils, enrolling names, examining text books, seeing that there is a uniformity and a conformity to those established by the proper board of Directors. This gives him an opportunity of judging what the attainments of his pupils are, or should be, by [illegible] of the pupils. He should then enter upon the classification of his school; and [illegible] two methods of doing this. One is to require all the members of [illegible] to study the same branch; the other is to permit pupils to recite at [illegible] different classes. [illegible] we believe to be the only [illegible] plan for our common schools, especially in rural districts. The proper formation of classes depends mainly upon the ability and degree of advancement of pupils and the skill of the teacher in conducting recitations. All should be so classed as to have the least possible number of classes, and each pupil be placed adapted to his standing. Having gone thus far, the next thing to be attended to is the general arrangement of the school. These should be such that the teacher may be left entirely free to attend to one thing at a time, and also that the scholars shall have constant employment, and such amount and such kind of studies as shall be suited to the circumstances and capacity of each.

The following are some of the things that are constantly pressing upon the teacher, unless by his arrangements he can continue to remove them, viz:

1st. Giving leave to whisper or to leave seats. These things should not be permitted without leave; then a specified time should be allotted to them, and they should not be allowed at any other time, unless some very unusual circumstance demands it.

2d. Answering questions with regard to studies. A great deal of time is sometimes spent in showing pupils what their lessons are, after the same has been assigned. This should not be; each pupil should be required to notice for himself, at the time for assigning lessons. After that, a teacher should answer no questions of the kind.

3d. Watching behavior of pupils. To get rid, in some measure, of this, the teacher should have [illegible] pupils feel that no places [illegible] then some system of [illegible] should be adopted. [illegible] do much toward giving relief.

4th. Administering reproof and punishment for offences as they occur.—These things should likewise have their own time and place.

5th. Hearing classes. This is pre-eminently the work of the school-room. All other exercises and arrangements are preparatory, and subsidiary to this. In the classes the real business of teaching is to be done.—Here the teacher comes in contact with his scholar's mind, with mind.—Hence, all other arrangements should be such as would let him attend to this work uninterruptedly and undisturbed.

Now, in conclusion, we would say, that the best course to pursue in organizing a school, is to make every arrangement in the school systematic. There should be a time for every thing, and every thing in its time. A time to open the school (which should never vary); a definite time for every school exercise; a time for study, and a time for recess; a time to whisper, and a time to keep silent. In short, every thing that is desirable, or that cannot be prevented, should be provided for, and have its own time and place.

The President Superseded.

The late course of the President does not appear to have been entirely satisfactory to a considerable portion of the Southern press, and they propose to supersede reliance upon him by an appeal to a Higher Power.—When the divine fiat was adverse to them in their endeavor to disintegrate the nation, they turned to Andrew Johnson as their only hope; but now that he has proved a frail and broken reed whereon to lean, it is proposed, by that representative Georgian sheet, the Aguista Constitutionalist, to cast him as to and trusting neither in any arm of flesh, abide the Providence of Jehovah and His appointed hour."

And the manner in which our Southern brethren would have Providence accomplish the desired purpose is thus indicated:

"Humiliation must come before stony hearts are softened; poverty must come before pride is humbled; all these will come in the approaching financial crash. This is we said one year ago, this is the pressure that will send the North down upon its knees, and, if restoration be no feverish vision, sorrow, more potent than joy, will be the angel of the Resurrection."

In other words, the Almighty is conjured by these cheerful supplicants, to bring upon us disaster, pestilence and famine, so that there may be superinduced among us a disposition to welcome them back to Congress, and allow them to dulcify the unfortunate African as they did in the good old times, under the Constitution as it was.

A SONG produced at the theatre in Mobile a few evenings since was hissed on account of expression of a hope that the North and South would live in peace and harmony hereafter.

How Things Look in the South.

BY MAJ. GILBERT HAVEN.

The South, as a whole, is yet bitterly disaffected. It accepts its fate sullenly, and would gladly break from its bonds, did the opportunity offer, as a confined criminal would escape from his prison. While organized means of hostility are not left them every means that is there they still faithfully use. Hence their journals, being allowed to fret and fume, ceaselessly distil the most venomous treason in every editorial line. Even the Louisville Journal, which has occasionally exhibited a little Union spirit, talks of Tennessee walking in chains, because the loyal whites of that State are its administrators.

This spirit breaks out on every possible occasion. I heard a Southern Methodist preacher in Nashville in his sermon speak of standing armies as the curse of all governments, empires, and republics, with such an accent on the last word as conveyed a flood of ugly feeling to his audience, whose hearts responded in an equal passion of helpless rage.

At Nashville, tableaux were lately acted for a charitable cause, in which the Confederacy was represented in her weeds, and the rebel symbols were flaunted before a sympathizing audience. A Johnson meeting, called, unwisely, as a Union meeting, had not a hundred present. The next day, his ticket had twelve hundred disunion supporters against four hundred radical and true Union men. They would not accept the word "Union"—but would recognize the President. They saw that he, like them, disliked what he would pretend to support, but which their honesty openly spurned. Rebel women of that city yet indulge in that truly Southern lady's custom expectorating their rattlesnake spittle at, if not into, the faces of the Union ladies who have come thither from the North since they were captured, and who can command a position equal with their own.

Our ladies, when shopping, are insultingly jeered at by those who are waiting upon them, and even told by these lordly mesdames of the yard-stick, that they do not wish for Yankee customers. A Northern merchant of that city declared it was hardly possible to get any trade from these people, however liberal were his prices. They loathed the presence of these Yankee intruders, whether as buyers or sellers; and, in all possible ways that stop short of open war, vent their spite against them.

Such are their feelings and conduct in the best circles and in the chief centres, where the presence of our military keeps their rage in check. Such is it in Nashville, which city is more subdued than any other in the South, because it enjoys not only the protection of our soldiery, but is presided over by the only Radical government that exists in any rebellious territory. Were such governors as those of Georgia or Kentucky in its capitol, her streets would hardly be safe for outspoken men of the North. They must speak with bated breath, or have their breath entirely abated, as an unendurable Yankee nuisance, at the nearest lamp-post.

But these petty slings and arrows with which their outrageous fortune has so abundantly supplied them, and which they so generously dispense to their conquerors, naturally develop into deadlier weapons where United States soldiers and Gov. Brownlows are not found. If this is the state of feeling and action in Nashville, how much worse is it in those outer regions blessed with Johnson governors, and unblessed with national troops! One may, perhaps, pass safely through these sections on the railroad, if he keeps his sentiments to himself, and is not known to have been their advocate. He may even settle in some places, on the penalty of equal silence. But for outspoken advocates of Northern sentiments, save in some parts of Tennessee and in Charleston, there is no safety. The missionaries and teachers who are braving these perils are compelled to confine their labors within the narrowest limits. They may preach, but cannot advocate the great principles of freedom, equality, and fraternity, which are the very bone and marrow of the gospel in its human intent and operation. They may teach but it must be one class of scholars, and not all the children and youth in their neighborhood, who need, desire and, upon persuasion, might accept these privileges.

In a word, the freedom with which we can debate and develop the true ideas of Democratic and Christian unity is the North is practically impossible in almost all the South. A Kentuckey slaveholder, himself quite a gentlemen, but exceedingly rebellious in his feelings, told me that one could not talk freely in his neighborhood.—His life would be sacrificed.

An illustration of their peaceful condition is seen in an experience reported to me by an officer still in our army. A friend of his, a captain in our army, while traveling lately up the Shenandoah, was approached at a station by a company of men who asked him if he did not shoot a man in that place when our army marched through there. He acknowledged he did; but he said the man, standing between two women, was insulting our flag.—He was determined that he should not shelter himself behind his body guard, and killed him, where he stood. These subjugated Virginians told him he must pay the price of that patriotism. He drew his revolver, and declared he was less than twelve of them should die first. They shrank back, and he escaped. But what kind of a peace is it when our soldiers are thus compelled to fight their way alone over the country they have once subdued in an army.

Other incidents, yet more thrilling, were related to me by officers detailed to collect our dead, and replace them in the national cemeteries. One of these, an army chaplain, said that, when they went to Pittsburg Landing, they were met with the hootings of the savages—not Indians, but Rebels—that abide there, and they could only pursue their work by threatening them with a cannon which they pretended they had in their possession.

A major in our service, said that he dared not make his tour of inspection in his uniform, but had to hide his official dignities under a citizen's dress; that, even then, he was often in great peril of his life. But lately, visiting Rome, to see how many of our dead lay there, he was approached by men at the tavern, who asked him his business. He replied that that was his own concern, not theirs. They still pressed him; and, as if suspicions of his errand, asked him if he had come to seek after the dead Yanks—He became somewhat alarmed, and said he had come to seek for a friend who had died in the Confederate service. The landlord instantly ordered up a team, without any order from him, and these men drove him to the cemetery, where both the rebel and the Union dead are buried, but in opposite divisions. They asked him the name of his friend. He gave them a fictitious name, and a fictitious statement, that he was his step-brother, and his mother had desired to have him found. On arriving at the cemetery, he neglected his "half-brother," and proceeded to count the rows of Union graves, and the number in a row, that he might ascertain how many coffins he would need. His "patrons" noticed his indifference, and asked him why he did not hunt up his brother. He had given them an odd name, as one too common would have excited suspicion; and he had to get out and go up and down path after path, searching among more than a thousand graves for his lost "brother." While thus engaged, the perspiration rolled from him in drops. If he could not find this name, his life must be instantly sacrificed. At length, the second from the last, appears the welcome word,—the long-lost brother is found, and his life is safe.

Let the nation look on its officer thus compelled to creep among rebel graves, under the haughty eye of rebel drivers, that he might find a name that shall deceive them and save his life,—and that, too, while engaged in the service of the nation, and holding a commission from the President of the United States. Sherman is needed again at Rome, more than in Mexico. Well does Mr. Phillips say that Gen. Grant has but half done his work, and will lose all the fame he has won if he allows such a state of things to exist.

The same officer declared, that, while riding through the wild mountain country in this same region, on this same service, he offered a blacksmith five dollars to shoe his horse. The fellow, who scented his origin and business, said he "would not put a shoe on a —— Yankee's horse for fifty dollars;" and immediately mounted his own, to raise the country. The officer started in an opposite direction, bought an old shoe and some nails of a Georgia maiden for two papers of tobacco, put it on himself, and rode forty-five miles that day to get away from these peaceable citizens, to whom Mr. Johnson has given up the State and tries to give up the nation.

Applying to a rebel soldier for information as to where some of our dead lay, the man, who was more friendly than his neighbors (the soldiers are the best behaved of the people), said, if he told, they would certainly kill him.

Such is the actual state of the South in Northern Georgia and Alabama, and the western borders of the Carolinas. It is not likely to be any better in other portions.

Yet, great as this darkness is, it is not altogether dark. Some things great and marvellous have been achieved. Chaos, horrible as it is, is not so bad as hell. Disorganized anarchy is better than organized diabolism. "Devil with devil joined firm concord held" throughout all that land. Now, this league is broken, and it only needs three things—a strong hand, a perfectly just policy, and time—to change that chaos to order, beauty and joy.—N. Y. Independent.

THE question of organizing a new county out of parts of Crawford county is greatly agitating the people of that section for and against the project.—Like all local discussions, that of this question is eliciting much bad feeling. The Legislature, at its coming session will be appealed to for action on the subject.

MANY leading secessionists and rebels in Missouri, disheartened at the redemption of that State, as made manifest by the late election, are disposing of their farms and emigrating to Texas. Poor fools! "manifest destiny" will soon overtake them there.

License to Murder.

The President, by an order dated Dec. 22, has dissolved the Military Commission, held at Richmond, for the trial of Dr. James J. Watson. The prisoner, who recently murdered a negro in Rockbridge county, Va., has therefore been discharged from custody, and is secured from any punishment. The facts in this case deserve to be universally known.

A few weeks ago a negro named Echols drove violently against a carriage in which the family of Dr. Watson were riding, breaking it, but injuring no one. The next day, Watson went in search of the negro, found him at work in a field, and attempted to beat him. Echols resisted and ran pursued by Watson, who threatened to shoot him unless he stopped. Echols preferred flight to a struggle, and Watson drew a pistol and shot him through the body. He died in a few hours. The murderer then surrendered himself, and his trial in the County Court resulted in entire acquittal.—Schofield, before whom these facts were brought, issued an order, under authority of the Act of Congress of July 16, 1866, for a Military Commission in Richmond, and on the 19th inst. Watson was brought before it. His conviction, had not the President interfered, was certain, for he confessed that he had committed the crime.

Mr. Johnson, in dissolving the Commission chose to accept the recent decision of the Supreme Court, that military trial of civilians in the Loyal States is illegal, as his authority.—His Cabinet, it is said, agrees with him. This interpretation will surprise no one, though it would have been better had a test case been submitted to the Supreme Court from the Rebel States. We are not yet prepared to admit that Virginia and Indiana stand in equal relations to the Government. But, any argument on this point is superseded by the fact that the President's action has taken from the freedmen their last hope of protection, from their oppressors—the last fear of Punishment. Watson killed this negro brutally. It was a murder without a shadow of justification, and freely admitted and boasted of as an act of courage. Yet the civil authorities of Virginia acquitted him of any crime, and virtually excluded the wanton killing of a negro from the category of murder. He may kill another to-morrow and there is no power that will punish the act. This is not an exceptional case; in Georgia 300 freedmen have been killed since Christmas, 1865, and but three of their murderers have been punished by the civil courts. Our correspondent at Savannah writes, under date of Dec. 19: "It would be just as easy to get a jury in the State of New-York to convict a person of manslaughter for shooting a mad dog, as to get a jury of Rebels to find a Rebel guilty upon a charge of killing a negro."—Sweeping as this assertion may be, the escape of Watson is an instance of its truth, as the New-Orleans massacre, the acquittal of Perrin, in Columbus County, Georgia, of the murder of Henry Thomas, and hundreds of other cases are proofs. The civil courts in the Rebel States positively refuse to try such cases, while in the few cases where the fear of military interference has induced them to parade the form of duty, the jury has acquitted the prisoner without the pretense of deliberation. No more need be said; we may simply add that the construction which President Johnson puts upon the decision of the Supreme Court, whether it be right or wrong, has left the Freedmen without a particle of legal protection. The whole subject must come before Congress, which will not, we may hope, neglect its duty of immediate action.—N. Y. Tribune.

West Virginia Oil Regions.

The oil market at Parkersburg, West Virginia, is just now depressed, as the lighter grades are selling for seven cents, a price ruinously low to the producer. At present, the yield at Burning Springs, Oil Rock, White Oak, Gale's Fork, and other neighborhoods, furnish the basis of the business at Parkersburg. Some works are in a forward state of completion, and others projected which will greatly extend the lines of connection between Parkersburgh and points West and Southwest. Flowing wells are still numerous at Burning Springs, the oil as it flows from the pipe, alternating with gas which is the power that lifts the oil from crevices sometimes a thousand feet, or even more below the surface. Although the actual production of oil is most great yet only a very insignificant portion of the oil territory has been developed. One company alone owns two thousand acres of land within that territory known as the Break, where all the oil has heretofore been found, and has leased only about three hundred acres, on which the works of White Oak are situated. The completion of the projected railroad works will give a new impetus to production, as at present the means of transportation are so meagre that when the tanks are full the owner cannot get it off his hands. Parkersburg has now a population of eight thousand and is growing rapidly.

THE REBELS of Baltimore are making very extensive preparations for a festival and fair, to be held Jan. 20, in aid of the southern orphan asylum at Richmond.

THE BEAVER ARGUS.

J. WEYAND,
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

January 2d, 1867.

We again issue our paper in advance of our regular publication day. New years day comes but once a year, and we feel inclined to shut up at that particular time.

A Matter of Local Importance.

It has transpired thus early that an act will be brought forward soon after the assembling of the Legislature, to restrain or forbid the use of crude petroleum for illuminating purposes. A statute of this character would operate very heavily in this county, for nearly our whole population are now using petroleum in its crude state.—The reasons for doing so are that it is produced in our own locality, is considered as safe as refined oils, and costs but one third as much as that which has passed through the stills.—The argument urged in favor of the passage of the law referred to is that the crude petroleum is dangerous as an illuminator, and that property and life are periled in its use. This is mere fiction, and is readily ascertained to be so by comparing the number of explosions of lamps containing refined, with those containing crude petroleum. The aggregate of the latter, in proportion to the quantity used of each, will not contrast unfavorably with the former, and hence it is safe to presume that the one is just as liable to explode as the other. But the objection to its use in this form really comes from the refining interest of the country, and the parties about to apply for a law forbidding its use are either directly or indirectly interested in the refining business. They desire to monopolize the whole illuminating trade, and accordingly ask the Legislature to pass a law that will prohibit us from using the oil that flows from the valleys at our feet, until it has passed through their hands, and returned to us at a cost of two hundred per cent added. This is a glaring imposition, and one, if consummated, that will bear harder upon our own than any other community; for it is here that the principal part of the oil that can be used in its crude state is produced and in general use. These facts being well known to our Senator and Representatives, we have no doubt but that the movement will meet with their stern opposition, the moment the project is brought before the General Assembly. A memorial to the Legislature, praying that such an act may not pass, is in circulation in this county, and should be signed by every person opposed to the intended monopoly.

Appointments by the Governor.

Gen Geary, the Governor elect of Pennsylvania, has tendered the Attorney Generalship of the State to the Hon. B. H. Brewster, of Philadelphia, who has accepted the position.

Col. Francis J. Jordan, of Bedford county, the chairman of the Union State Committee, has also received from the Governor elect the appointment of Secretary of State.

Both of these gentlemen are well and favorably known throughout the State, and there is scarcely a doubt but that they will fill the positions to which they have been called in a manner creditable to themselves, and satisfactory to the people of our great Commonwealth. Governor Geary thus starts out under favorable auspices, and it is to be hoped that his administration will prove as successful as has been that of his predecessor, Gov. Curtin.

We stated last week that a Democrat in the vicinity of New Brighton had written us that 'The Local has done the last job for me, and, I am afraid, a great many others in this Place. I see by your paper you hit him often, and I find it is more truth than poetry."

The Local asserts that no Democrat of New Brighton or elsewhere wrote this to us, and proposes to make us a present of the hat we gave to Odell some time ago, if we prove it. We are not dealing in old hats at the present time, but if Odell has courage enough to extend his proposition to a new $5 "tile," we shall make the "endeavor" to prove the genuineness of the above quotation.

The Franklin Repository, published at Chambersburg, Pa., completed its seventy-third year last week. The Repository is owned by a stock company, composed of one hundred persons, who annually select its editor-in-chief. Col. A. K. McClure is at present its editor, and succeeds in making the Repository one of the best papers in Pennsylvania.

A correspondent of the Washington Reporter suggests the name of Hon. Wm McKennan, of that county, as a candidate for the U. S Senate in place of Edgar Cowan.

The Local's New Paper Project.

The Local of last week announces, and with a great deal of ill-concealed gratification, that a new "Republican" paper is soon to be started in this county. This information is given to the public in connection with an argument in its favor by the editor of the Local; and if there is really a movement of the kind on foot, it is easily seen from the fact that it starts out from under the Local's wing, and is intended only to be a disturbing element in the Republican party. But few Union men of the county will therefore be deceived by it; and if any person has made up his mind to risk a few thousand dollars in a project of that kind, we suppose the sooner he gets to work, the sooner will the character of his investment be comprehended. We do not know who Odell's man is; but we venture the opinion that he is not in accord with the Union party of this county, and that his object is either an effort to turn the political power of the county over to the copperheads, or to wage a personal warfare upon some persons in the Union ranks whom he imagines to be his foes. A newspaper movement based upon such motives will hardly prove very formidable; and it will more readily relieve its projector of his loose change than affect the standing of the persons or the unity of the party which he proposes to attack. At all events, the Argus will not "incontinently suspend further operations" yet.

The Local wishes us to tell it why the Treasury robbers "will, in all probability, go unpunished." Simply because they have not been captured, and are not known. If the editor of the Local or any of his friends know who they are or where they may be found, the Commissioners will thankfully receive the information, and pay liberally besides. They offered one thousand dollars some time ago for the arrest of the thieves and the recovery of the stolen money, and we presume the offer is still good; hence, if the Local knows where both or either may be found, it has here an opportunity of "making a pile," that should be embraced without delay.

Choice Extracts.

The Local has heretofore been regarded as too obscene for family reading. Wharton's connection with it has not improved it in that particular, but on the contrary, has added blasphemy to its many moral delinquencies. Read these extracts from the last number of that paper:

"All who believe in an endless hell for unrepentant sinners must believe that the immortal part of Mr. Lincoln is now suffering its torments.

In another article he says—

"A prayer meeting for the purpose of instructing and keeping God posted up in Radical politics, has been started by Congress."

As an advocate of general debauchery and cheap whiskey he puts in this plea—

"A better plan would be to reduce the tax on whiskey to such a figure as will not offer a positive premium to fraud and corruption."

East and West Virginia.

The secession theory has proved to be a two edged sword, wounding those who wielded it. If Virginia had a right to secede from the Union, the same principle of sovereignty justified West Virginia, and the present wail of the Eastern part of the State, over the loss on the West side of the mountains, is ridiculous. The Richmond Dispatch makes a note of some items in the bill, which it thinks should be charged pro rata to West Virginia:

1. The whole number of acres of land in the State of Virginia before her dismemberment, was 50,538,080: the fifty counties in West Virginia, 23,190,815—very nearly half the territory of the State.

2 The whole white population of Virginia was 1,047,547; of that part now West Virginia, 255,640—or more more than one third the whole population of Virginia.

3. The value of real estate of Virginia was $377,947,112 17; value of same in that part of the State now West Virginia, $83,803,641 61.

Thus according to these official estimates, this State loses, with West Virginia, nearly half its territory, more than one third of its white population, and nearly one fourth of the value of its real estate.

Virginia had 472,647 slaves valued at 236,323,500, the tax on which in 1860 yielded a revenue of 270,000.

In view of these calamities, of course the credit of the State has suffered severely; her stocks having fallen from nearly par before the war to now thirty-three to thirty-four cents on the dollar.

Add to these losses direct to the State, the vast amount of personal property destroyed, which most seriously affects the revenue of the State while it produces a degree of suffering and desolation amongst the people unknown on this continent.

In regard to the State debt, now over $43,000,000, the Dispatch says it must be "scaled," and one third, the share of West Virginia, repudiated, if that State will not pay it.

The State Legislature met on Monday, the 20th of January. We have heard nothing yet of its organization, but take it that Louis W. Hall will be speaker of the Senate, and Col. M. S. Quay, of this county, speaker of the House of Representatives.

SUMMARY OF NEWS.

—Rich lead mines have been discovered in Williamsburg, Ky.

—A grand ovation was given to Gen. Joe Johnston, at Holly Springs, Miss on Thursday night.

—It is reported that the late severe weather in Indiana has materially damaged the wheat crop throughout the State.

—Two persons were burnt to death last week in Michigan, by the carelessness of kerosene in kindling a fire.

—A company of Americans are manufacturing condensed milk at Zurich.

—During a disturbance at a public house in Philadelphia, a man dropped dead from excitement.

—George H. Gilbert, stage manager of the Broadway theatre, N. Y., died a few days ago.

—Since January 1st, 141 ships have arrived at Boston, against 107 last year, and 1,457 steamers against 1,085 last year.

—Hon. Horace Greely has purchased a [illegible] pew in Dr. Chapin's new church in 34th avenue, New York, paying $200 premium therefor.

—Mr. S. M. Pettengill, the advertising agent in New York, was married last week to Miss Leonora Holt. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Henry Ward Beecher.

—Gov. A. J. Hamilton, of Texas, has located in Harrisburg, Pa., and will soon commence the practice of law there.

—Since the opening of the season, 33,254 hogs have been packed at the various establishments in Indianapolis.

—J. R. Dunglison, of the Philadelphia Press, has been appointed private secretary by Gov. Geary.

—Official returns of the Nevada election given Blaisdell, for Governor, a majority of 1,020, and Ashley, for Congress, a majority of 850.

—A Dispatch from San Francisco states that negotiations are pending for the introduction from China of a large force of laborers for work on the Pacific Railroad.

—Hon. Wm. D. Northend, the Democratic candidate who was defeated by General Butler, intends to contest General Butler's seat in the next Congress.

—Miss Emma W. Green, of Allentown, asked a New Jersey jury for 10,000 for damages done to her affections by John W Tantum, who backed out. She got $2,800, and John has been missing for the last few days.

—Three men were arrested at Tidionte on Tuesday last charged with highway robbery. Their names are John Wilson, Warren Lewis and Peter Haggerty.

—We notice that our exchanges are cautioning their brethren of the press to beware of the Hamlin Brothers traveling showmen. It is reported that they are dead beats. Show them up. Any person who will "cut" his printer's bill is meaner than Judas.

—The Southern loyalists have concluded their labors, and their memorial and address, asking Congress to abolish the present State Governments in the South, were duly presented in the House, and referred to the committee on Reconstruction.

—On Tuesday evening last, John Hickey murdered his wife at Titusville. It appears that Mrs. Hickey was a notorious sot, and her husband aggravated at her conduct commenced beating her with a stick of wood without as he says, any intention of killing her, but the beating resulted in the death of the poor degraded woman.

—The Treasurer of the United States holds as securities for National Banks, $340,363,150; depositories of public moneys, $39,297,100; Total, 379,660, 250. Total amount of currency issued to date, $800,736,951. Deducting currency returned, including worn out notes, the actual circulation is $278,613,674.

—The Gettysburg Cemetery Monument is to be completed by July 1, 1867. The statue of General Reynolds is to be erected in the cemetery, and not on the spot where he fell. It is intimated that the Freedmen's Lincoln Monument Association will apply for permission to place a bronze statue of the late President in the cemetery.

—The President has pardoned Hon. Humphrey Marshall, of Kentucky.—He has declined to be a candidate for the United States Senatorship from his State. His first act as a loyal man is to be the prosecution of somebody for confiscating and selling his law library. He now thinks this some body will be Enoch Carson, of Cincinnati.

—The increase of the population of the State of Illinois from 1850 to 1860 was 860,000. Of its 35,000,000 acres of land 30,000,000 are tillable. Its last corn crop amounted to 177,000,000 bushels; its wheat 25,000,000. Illinois has now a population of upwards of two millions, of whom at least one-quarter are foreigners—principally Germans.

—The death of a remarkable rabbi of the Jewish Church at Germany is announced. M. Frank was a native of Wilna, born in the year 1758, so that he had attained his one hundred and eighth year. At that advanced period of life he was without any of the infirmities of old age, his hearing was perfect, he read without spectacles, and took long walks up to the last day of his life.

Sumner, the accomplice of Booth, in the assassination of the late President Lincoln, [illegible] way hither [illegible] American Consul at Malta has received [illegible] that an American [illegible] Alexandria a day [illegible] with [illegible] board en-route [illegible] country. He will probably be landed and confined at Fortress Monroe until brought to trial for his crime.

An application for a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Dr. Mudd, one of the assassination conspirators, and who is now at Tortugas, has been made to the United States Supreme Court.—The writ will, in all probability, not be allowed.

Congress, after having had a recess of two weeks, meets on Thursday next, the 3d of January.

[For the Beaver Argus.]

Through the kindness of Col. O. R. Coe, Ticket Agent for the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad, having received a pass over the Pittsburgh & Erie Railway, in company with that gentleman I set out for Erie city on December 11th, to attend a county Sabbath School Convention.

On arriving in the city, we found the convention in session, and composed of Pastors, Sabbath School Superintendents and teachers from Erie county, all very much awake to the great interests of the Sabbath School cause. All the leading questions bearing on this great subject were discussed by the members of the convention and then reviewed by the Rev. Mr. Meredith, of the M. E. Church, and R. G. Pardee, Esq., who is so extensively known as a most valuable man in the Sabbath School interest. The exercises were eminently devotional, and interspersed with appropriate music, conducted by Prof. Philip Phillips, so widely and favorably known. He may be well called "The Singing Pilgrim." A most happy spirit pervaded the entire meeting; all felt that it was good to be there. And all doubtless went home greatly profited and better fitted mentally and spiritually for the work of the Sabbath School. Mr. Pardee gave me a small card on which I find the following maxims, to be pondered and thoroughly grasped by every teacher:

1. Never to teach what you don't quite understand.
2. Never to tell a child what you could make him tell you.
3. Never to give a piece of information without asking for it again.
4. Never to use a hard word if an easy one will convey your meaning, and never to use any word at all unless you are quite sure that it has a meaning to convey.
5. Never to begin an address or a lesson without a clear view of its end.
6. Never to give an unnecessary command, nor one which you do not mean to see obeyed.
7. Never to permit any child to remain in the class even for one minute without something to do and a motive for doing it.

Will Superintendents and Sabbath School Teachers please cut out these maxims and place them in their Bibles for practical use? They are of great importance.

By the way could we not have a convention of all the Pastors, Superintendents and Teachers in Beaver county, to meet in one of our churches and discuss the great questions vital to Sabbath Schools? Would not such a meeting, interspersed with psalmody and prayer, be productive of great good? Other counties are moving in this direction, why should not Beaver? It is a cause in which every christian should be engaged. It is one, too, rich in rewards which any one may well covet. S. L. S.

MEXICO.

Report of General Sherman—The Juarez Government Mythical.

Washington, December 28.—President Johnson and Secretary Seward are sorely annoyed at the result of General Sherman's visit to Mexico. The telegraphic advices of the latter were very voluminous after his return from the Rio Grande to New Orleans, so that the Executive and Minister of State are fully assured of the utter fruitlessness of the undertaking to find a semblance of the Juarez Government in his dispatches. General Sherman has not missed matters, but states broadly that the Liberal organization is, in a great measure, a myth, and that the classes are irreclaimably given over to anarchy. It is also made to appear that in a free fight, with the Frenchmen out of the way, Ortega would probably circumvent Juarez and all the other factions.—The report that General Sherman and Minister Campbell were met at a point on the coast by emissaries of Juarez, is untrue. While they came in contact with several parties who had acted formerly in close concert with the Republican Chief, not one of them was the bearer of official intelligence or greetings to our mission, nor could they depose as to what quarter of Mexico Juarez had taken up his precarious sojourn. The Administration is fully convinced that no eclat will grow out of its enterprise to discover the whereabouts of the Liberal Government in Mexico and its disposition to advance even moral aid to the latter is very considerably shaken.

Terrible Massacre—Ninety U. S. Officers and Soldiers Murdered by Indians.

Fort Laramie, December 26.—There was a horrid massacre on the 22d inst., near Fort Phil Kearney. Brevet Col. Fetterman, Capt. Brown and Lieut. Grammond, of the 18th infantry, with ninety enlisted men of the 2d Cavalry and 18th Infantry were surrounded by Indians and every officer and man killed.

"Whining" Women.

Brigham Young of Utah has been [illegible] the women of that free and [illegible] Territory in a manner at once [illegible] and unique. He accuses them of "whining," and says that they must [illegible] that "stuff that sort of [illegible]" or else start for the other side of Jordan at once—and he tells his own forty wives that he means them, as well as the rest of the feminine Utahns. He says that the kernel of the whole difficulty—the direct occasion of the disagreeable and unbearable "whinings" lies in the fact that "the women expect too much of the Saints." He says that the women—even his own forty—are so weak minded as to suppose that the saintly Elders of the Mormon Israel can make a heaven on earth for them, and that after a woman has entered a saint's family, and finds that after all he is not able to make a heaven on earth for her, she begins to whine and talk about "too many wives," and the "evils of polygamy," and such like blasphemous twaddle. Brigham also says it is his opinion that any woman who ever lived would be disappointed in the best Saint in Utah, should she marry him—and on this point we unreservedly agree with Brigham. The Governor gave all the women warning that at two weeks from date of his sermon against "whining" he he should call upon them either to promise never to whine more, or else leave the territory, bag and baggage, saying that he would even send off all his own wives, and go to heaven alone, sooner than take such a whining crew along with him. We shall await the next news from Utah with deep interest.

From Philadelphia.

Philadelpaia, Dec. 27.

SHOOTS HIS SISTER IN A HOUSE OF ILL FAME.

A young man named Patterson shot his sister in a house of ill fame. He tried to induce her to leave the place, but she refused, when he shot her. The woman will recover.

GOVERNOR GEARY'S APPOINTMENT

A Harrisburg dispatch states that General Geary, the Governor elect, has appointed Col. Frank Jordan, Secretary of the Commonwealth, and Hon. Benjamin Harris Brewster to be Attorney General.

WHEAT FROM CALIFORNIA.

The clipper ship David Crockett brought sixty-six thousand bushels of wheat from California. This is the first direct cargo of California wheat ever brought to this port.

HEAVY ROBBERY OF GOVERNMENT BONDS.

C. P. Bayard & Co., bankers, were robbed to day of a quarter of a million of Government bonds and securities in a manner similar to the Lord bond robbery. It is supposed that it was done by two men who were in the office asking questions. Other bankers state that parties answering their description visited their offices this morning.

Dec. 26, '66:3m HENRY FEICHT.

Valuable Property for Sale.

THE subscriber, wishing to close up his business in Beaver, offers the following property for sale: One house and lot, with stable and other out-buildings, situated in the north-east corner of Diamond. Also another house and lot adjoining school lot. Said house is just finished in the latest and best style, containing eight rooms.

Also, the house wherein he now resides, situated on the bank of the Ohio river; said house contains twelve rooms being refitted and refurnished in the best style, and is in good order. Last mentioned property has stable, coal house, stone smoke house, wash house and ware house, together with all kinds of fruit and shrubbery. Immediate possession given.

Also, two out lots, containing about seven acres, being well watered, and is well calculated for pasture or grain.

The above property will be sold cheap and on easy terms made easy. For particulars, inquire of Trustee's Sale of Real Estate.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Common Pleas of Beaver county, the undersigned, Trustee of Beaver county, the undersigned, Trustee appointed by said Court to make sale of the real estate of Joseph Alcorn, late of Moon township, dec'd, for the benefit of the Creditors of said dec'd, township, will expose to public sale or outcry, upon the premises, on at 1 o'clock P. M., all the following described tract of land, late the estate of Joseph Alcorn, dec'd., situate in Moon township, in said county of Beaver, State of Pennsylvania, to wit: All that tract, bounded on the north by the line of the Borough of Freedom, on the east by land formerly of Henry Alcorn, on the south by lands of R. Alcorn and others, on the west by lands of R. Alcorn, Jacob Vogt and Jacob Wagner, containing about 247 acres, about 175 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, the balance well timbered; a log house and log barn on the premises. This is a very desirable farm—gently rolling, soil excellent, well watered, &c. It is within 1 mile of the Ohio river, 1 of a mile of the Rochester Station, at the junction of the Pitts. Ft. W. & C. and C. & P. Railroads, 27 miles from Pittsburgh. It will be sold as a whole or divided to suit purchasers into two parcels, by a line running in a northern and southern direction through it, making the eastern division to contain about 100 acres and the western division about 147 acres. Possession given April 1, 1867.

TERMS—One-third of the purchase money to be paid on confirmation of the sale by the Court, balance in two equal, annual instalments, with interest from that date, to be secured by bond and mortgage.

For further information inquire of the undersigned, residing in Moon township aforesaid, or by letter at Water Cure, Beaver county, Pa. DANIEL B. SHOUP, Trustee.

LOCAL and MISCELLANEOUS.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

☞ The attention of the public is directed to the following new advertisements which appear for the first time in the Argus to day:

☞ Store, &c.—S. J. Cross & Co.

☞ Hardware, &c.—S. Wingate.

☞ O. C. Sale—Saml. Patterson and John M'Clure.

☞ WM. BINGHAM, JR., 54 Fifth st., Pittsburg, is the authorized agent for the ARGUS in that city.

OPENING OF SCHOOLS.—The Beaver Female Seminary and also the Academy open to-day (January 2d). The prospect we understand for a good attendance in both of the schools is good.

VISITING HER HUSBAND.—Mrs Lennox, wife of John Lennox, of Washington county, visited her husband last week, who is at present confined in our county jail for murder. Her visit continued for three or four days.

☞ See the advertisement in another column of S. J. Cross & Co., of Rochester. Mr. C. has an excellent store in that flourishing village; and, besides, is a thorough-going, substantial business man. Call and see his stock.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—On Christmas day, while a man named Ford was walking over the railroad bridge across Little Beaver Creek, at Smith's Ferry, in this county, he missed his step and fell through between the ties, a distance of about thirty feet. He lived but a few hours after the occurrence. He was under the influence of liquor at the time.

ON A HOME VISIT.—A. R. M——, Esq., formerly Register and Recorder in this county, but now in a bank in his family the "night came home Chase," and spent the Holidays before town.

S. S. Wilson, Esq., now assistant doorkeeper of the House of Representatives at Washington, D. C., also came home a day or two before Christmas, and tarried in our midst until after New Years day.

ICE GONE.—The ice on the dam above the Bridgewater bridge over Beaver creek broke up on Monday night of last week, and passed down the stream with a great crashing noise. The smash-up occurred at about 8 P. M., and attracted quite a crowd to the bank of the stream, who watched "the proceedings" with a good deal of interest.

GOOD ORDER IN NEW BRIGHTON.—The efficient Burgess of New Brighton, Mr. Johns, informs us that he has made but one arrest within the last two months. If there was no necessity for more arrests than this, it speaks loudly in favor of good order in that town.

WORTH TRYING.—We noticed some time ago a scrap in some of our exchanges to the effect that lime sprinkled over potatoes would prevent them from rotting. Since then we have conversed with two or three persons in our own vicinity who have tried it, and they all assure us that it is a thorough preventive.—The process is to cull the potatoes and pick out all the sound ones, dry these, put them in the cellar and throw a little air-slacked lime over them. The lime will not injure the potato, and will prevent its decay. The cure is so simple that it should be tried by all having potatoes to keep.

IT DIDN'T PAY.—Stephen Hunter, of New Brighton, sold his house recently, and with the proceeds in his pocket, was getting on the train for the west, when he was arrested by Constable Darling and brought before Esq. Morian, on a charge of assigning his property to prevent its being levied upon for his debts—Stephen having forgotten to settle sundry little bills he had incurred. Stephen protested he would go to jail before he would pay a cent; but his better half, who was fully equipped for a westward trip, seemed not to relish being parted thus, and, against his protestations, settled the various claims, when the train departed, if with lightened purse, yet with the injunction fulfilled, to owe no man anything.

A FREE FIGHT.—On Christmas day some ten or a dozen of Irishmen, employed on the Pitts. Fort Wayne & C. R. R., came to Rochester with the avowed intention of "going through" the natives. After meandering around for some time, they came across one or two of the aforesaid natives, who felt disposed to take a little stock in the enterprise. By and by other natives invested, until the shares were all taken, and then for a few minutes the claret is said to have flowed quite freely; and the "set-to" resulted in the repulse of the attacking party, who retired with bloody noses, black eyes, and bruised pates "too numerous to mention."

A NARROW ESCAPE.—On Wednesday evening, a little after night fall, a man from Rochester, belonging to the cutlery establishment in that place, requested a little boy to accompany him along the narrows from Fallston to Beaver Falls, and offered to compensate him therefor. The little boy not relishing the trip through the snow storm, declined.

About nine o'clock the attention of Mr. Williams' family was arrested by loud appeals for assistance, evidently coming from a man in distress. The appeal was promptly responded to by the family, who discovered that he had missed the road, as the snow was fast falling, and had whitened the ground so that he could not see, and had fallen into the race, but had gained a large cake of ice that was floating, and when sufficient aid had been mustered to rescue him, he was nearly frozen. He was taken into Mr. Williams' house and restoratives employed, and he remained with his hospitable host over night, and next day went on his way rejoicing.

"CHESTER WHITES."—We understand that a few gentlemen of this place have associated themselves together for the purpose of importing to this vinimity a few of the hogs known as "Chester Whites." This breed of hogs are extensively grown in Chester county, in this State, and grow to a size that is almost incredible. The weight of one in particular, which we noticed a day or two ago, somewhat astonished us. The sheet was 21 months old and its weight was 1250 pounds.

BOOK NOTICES.

THE LADY'S FRIEND FOR JANUARY.—The Steel Plates in the January number of this Queen of the Magazines, are uncommonly beautiful. We seldom see a finer picture than "At Sea," and "Worth's Charlotte" looks lovely enough to justify the passionate admiration that all the world has heard of. The large Double Fashion Plate exhibits that elegance and saliliancy which is its established characteristic in this magazine: a stylish skating costume will attract attention. Children's Fashions, Peletots, Coiffures, Bonnets, &c., also the Work-Table Department, are profusely illustrated with wood-cuts. In the Literary Department, we find the names of the best writers. "Orville College," a new story by Mrs. Henry Wood, author of "East Lynne," &c., and "How a Woman Had Her Way," by Elizabeth Prescott, are commenced in this number. The publishers announce in addition, novelets by Amanda Douglas and Frank Lee Benedict. They also announce, in addition to the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machines, a Splendid List of new Premiums, including Silver-Plated Tea-Sets, Cake-Baskets and Ice-Pitchers, Silver and Gold Watches, Guns and Rifles, Clothes Wringers, Melodeons and Organs, Appleton's Cyclopedia, &c. A beautiful Steel Engraving, 30 inches long by 20 inches wide, called "One of Life's Happy Hours," will be sent gratis to every single (2.50) subscriber, and to every person sending a club. Specimen numbers of the Magazine, containing the particulars of the premium offers and the reduced prices to clubs, will be sent on the receipt of twenty cents.

Price (with engraving) $2.50 a year; four copies (with one engraving) $6; eight copies (with extra magazine and an engraving) $12.00. Address Deacon & Peterson, 319 Walnut St., Philadelphia.

A LAWYER IN THE SCHOOL ROOM.—This remarkable little book, by M. McN. Walsh, A. M., L. L. B., (a New York lawyer), is full of useful and reliable information for everybody, but especially for teachers, school officers, parents, ministers, editors and members of the legal profession. The first chapter, "Of Schools and Governments," is a succinct explanation of the different plans adopted by governments, ancient and modern, for the diffusion of knowledge among the people. This chapter, in some respects, is exceedingly suggestive, and not unworthy the attention of our most intelligent and experienced statesmen.—It is not imaginative or speculative, but a plain, matter-of-fact statement, which, in spite of its plainness, has, to a mind capable of appreciating the subject, all the charm of romance. This chapter alone is worth many times the price of the book. "The Lawyer in the School Room" is sent by mail to any part of the United States for $1.00. Address the author, M. McN. Walsh, No. 65 Nassau Street, New York.

The trade supplied on usual terms.

ALMANAC FOR 1867.—We have received from Messrs. King & Baird, 607 Sanson Street, a copy of "The Useful Almanac" for 1867, just published by them. A book of reference to all who desire to know how the goodly City of Philadelphia is governed; the extent, number and location of its various Public Institutions, and the manner of gaining access to them; the location of all Churches, Railroads, Banks, Places of Amusement, Public Parks, Ferries, Foreign Consuls' offices, etc.; the location of all elective and appointive offices, and manner of election or appointment, with the term of office, and other useful information of interest to citizens as well as strangers. Price Twenty Cents, and mailed on receipt of price, by King & Baird, Publishers, 607 Sanson Street, Philadelphia.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.—The January number of this truly valuable work is now on our table. This number contains seventeen able articles, besides the editorial chit-chat, literary notices, monthly record of current events, and a full complement of contributors to the editors drawer. "Adam Gorrow," which appears in this number, is a tale of thrilling interest; "Three days of Terror," is a well written account of the mob rule in New York city in 1863; and the writer gives a graphic picture of the terrible scenes that occurred during that brief carnival of treason in the Empire City. A Virginian (Porte Crayon) contributes another chapter of "Personal Recollections of the War." J. S. C. Abbott has a chapter describing the Capture, Imprisonment and Escape of three of our officers from Dixie—Messrs. Hood, Murphy and Raynor. Besides these are several other well written articles. It is sufficient to say that the January number of Harper fully maintains the proud position which it has always heretofore held in the dominion of Literature and Art.

"BEAVER CITY CHRONICLE."—A friend has put into our hands a copy of the Beaver City Chronicle, published at Rochester, this county, by L. Washington White, and dated October 10th, 1899. The Chronicle appears to have been Democratic in its politics, and bitterly hostile to its opponents. On the ticket, for '76, election, held a short time before the Lexington treachery upon some of the members of its party, and "fixed" into them politically. John R. Shannon, Esq., deceased, in particular, gets a full share of the thrashing the editor is supposing himself to be administering. We judge, from the specimen before us, that the Chronicle was a very harmless sheet, and that its influence, for either good or evil, was quite limited.

The vote cast in the county, at the election referred to, averaged about 3200; of this number about 1450 were Democrats, and 1750 Whigs. The vote in the county at the election in October, 1866, was 5700, showing an increase in the voting population of the county of 2500, in twenty-seven years—notwithstanding the lopping off of a tremendous slice of territory in the northern part of the county since that time.

An enterprising hotel keeper, in the paper of the above date, gives notice that he has recently removed to the house lately occupied by John Darrah, one door east of the Franklin House, in Bridgewater, Pa., where he intends to keep a tavern, which shall rank 'A No. 1' in its class, and be an honor to the city. It will be called the 'Entertainment and Recess;' and its accommodations will comprise a resting place for the weary traveler; victualing, boarding, and indeed everything that heart can wish or money purchase. He has a good bakery attached, and offers the staff of life to every one on the most reasonable terms.—In return, all he asks is a liberality of patronage which is commensurate with his merits and exertions."

THE MIDDLETON MYSTERY.—The mystery connected with the disappearance of Mr. Middleton, of Fallston, who was supposed to have been drowned in Brady's Run some six weeks or two months ago, is as impenetrable as ever. At least it seems so to us; but there are others who believe that circumstances have come to light which warrant the belief that he was foully dealt with, and that the following parties are in some way implicated in his disappearance, viz: Wash. Gordon, Anna Waters, James Parris and Jack Hill. These persons all resided in the immediate vicinity of where Middleton was last seen; and accordingly on Saturday last, on oath of Henry Middleton, a son of the missing man, a warrant was issued by Justice Imbrie for their arrest. In the evening they were brought before that officer, who committed them to the jail of the county.

We are not acquainted with the circumstances which induced the arrest of these parties, but presume the public will be apprised of them in due course of time.

ALL GLORY TO PENNSYLVANIA.—Though less spasmodic and impulsive than some of her sister States, yet when she moves it is like the steady tread of the giant; she leaves her footprints indelibly impressed. Her advances are always in the right direction. Her benevolent feelings find expression in patriotic beneficence. Illustrating this a beautiful light presented itself to the patriotic observer. At the Allegheny Valley railroad, on Tuesday morning lately, Rev. W. G. Taylor, of the Phillipsburg Soldiers' Orphans' School, delivered to the State Inspector, Colonel Bear, thirty-seven soldiers' orphans that he brought up on the night train of the Pitts., Ft. W. & C. R R. These children go to organize a new school at Dayton, Armstrong county, Pa. The boys and girls both showed remarkable discipline. Such success, in so short a time, in moulding so heterogenious mass, as these children must have been when gathered into this school, into the order, decorum, neatness and cleanliness and cheerfulness and buoyant health that those children exhibited, shows the remarkable skill and patient labor of Mr. Taylor. When these youth came to part from their kind friend, the farewell was as tender as that of children from their parents. With tears in their eyes they all kissed him, and some of their hearts were too full to say farewell.—This kindness, mingled with great firmness, is the secret of his control and success. What a foundation for the new school. Governor Curtin's happiest conception was the soldiers' orphan school—its support one of the best investments of the State.—Pitts Commercial, of Dec. 25th.

SUICIDE.—Some two weeks ago, a man named Scott, the baker of the Economy Society, in this county, committed suicide by cutting his throat.—He had been partially deranged for some time previous.

A LARGE RUN OF OIL.—The Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Rail Road have for some time past been engaged in digging deep cut, for the purpose of straightening their Road north of Wallace run, in this county. They have carried their project well forward, when on Christmas night a land slide of about two acres overtook them last week, burying the cut in some places to the depth of 40 feet. The misfortune has been a heavy one, and at last account the company had not determined whether to clear away their work or abandon it entirely.

FATAL AFFRAY.—On Christmas evening a fatal affray occurred at Porterville, Butler county. The circumstances as we have them are as follows: A young man named Cunningham, living near the line between this and Lawrence county, took with him a friend from New Castle to Porterville on Christmas evening, and attended a ball at the hotel in the place. Some time after they got there, an altercation originated between Cunningham, his friend, and the Landlord.—The two former then undertook to "clean" the house out, and a general row occurred, during which Cunningham was cut with a knife, in the hands of a man named Abingdon, and instantly killed. Other parties were also badly cut, but none of them fatally.

A RUN OUT.—On Christmas evening a team belonging to Thos. McKinley, of this place ran away while hitched to a carriage. No one was in the vehicle at the time. The horses ran furiously to Vanport—a distance of two miles—turned around, and pulled up at the place from which they started. Strange to say, neither carriage, harness, nor horses were damaged.

FALLSTON IMPROVEMENTS.—Fallston has recently made some important improvements in the erection, by Minor and Merrick, of a Saw Mill one hundred and twenty feet long, and forty wide—with circular and mully saws. They manufacture shingles, lath, and building lumber. They also have a new Planing Mill sixty by thirty feet. These buildings are erected on the old seat where the buildings were burned a few years ago. Mr. Minor has also repaired the brick dwelling that suffered injury by the same fire.

Mr. John Thornley has a fine stone establishment, forty by eighty feet where he manufactures Engines, Stoves, Iron fence, Plows, and all articles in his line of business.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

The receipts of oil at Pittsburg, last week from all sources amounted to 7,521 barrels.

The price at that city on Saturday last was $3,50 per barrel, and but little activity in the market.

At Oil City, on Saturday, $3 per barrel was the ruling price, and at the wells up the creek $1,50 to $1,75 were the figures. Business very dull.

At Smith's Ferry the price ranged from $2,30 to $2,38 according to gravity. At Island Run $1,35 and inactive.

Music.

THE undersigned would respectfully inform the Public that after the 1st of January, 1867, he will be prepared to give private lessons in Music to all who may favor him with their patronage. Lessons given at the residences of pupils, or at the room of the subscriber. Charges moderate.

AMERICAN JEWELRY ASSOCIATION.

Depots: 36 & 39 Nassau, 54 56 & 58 Liberty St.,

NEW YORK CITY.

Of Rosewood Pianos and Melodeons, Fine Oil Paintings, Engravings, Silver, Watches, Gold and Silver Watches, and Elegant Jewelry, consisting of Diamond Pins, Diamond Rings, Gold Bracelets, Coral, Florentine, Ladies' Sets, Gold Pens, with Gold and Silver Extension Holders, Sleeve Buttons, Sets of Studs, Vest and Neck Chains, Plain and Chased Gold Chains, &c., &c., &c., valued at which they need not pay until it is known what is drawn and its value.

THE AMERICAN JEWELERY ASSOCIATION calls your attention to the fact of its being the largest and most popular Jewelry Association in the United States. The business is and always has been conducted in the most candid and honorable manner. Our rapidly increasing trade is a sure guarantee of the appreciation of our patrons for this method of obtaining rich, elegant and costly goods.—The sudden stagnation of trade in Europe, owing to the late European Hostilities, and the disastrous financial crisis in England, has caused the failure of a large number of Jewelry Houses in London and Paris obliging them to sell their goods at a great sacrifice, in some instances less than one-third the cost of manufacturing. We have lately purchased very largely of these Bankrupt Goods, at such extremely low prices, that we can afford to send away Finer Goods, and give better chances to draw the most valuable prizes than any other establishment doing a similar business. OUR AIM IS TO PLEASE, and we respectfully solicit your patronage, as we are confident of giving the utmost satisfaction. During the past year we have forwarded a number of the most valuable prizes to all parts of the country. Those who patronize us will receive the full value of their money, as no article on our list is worth less than One Dollar, retail, and there are no blanks. Parties dealing with us may depend on having prompt returns, and the article drawn will be immediately sent to any address by return mail or express.

The following parties have recently drawn valuable prizes from the American Jewelers' Association, and have kindly allowed the use of their names:

Charles J. Hunter, Esq., Treasury Department, Washington, D. C., Piano, value $300; Miss Anna G. Lynch, 52 St. Mark's Place, N. Y., Sewing Machine, value $75; Brig. Gen. L. L. Hapgood, U. S. Vols., Nashville, Tenn., Silver Tea Set, value $150; Miss Emma Hunter, 63 Front St., Harrisburg, Pa., Sewing Machine, value $60; Lieut Col. Walter Chittenden, Quartermaster, Louisville, Kentucky, Gold Watch, value 150; Wm. S. Haigh, 247 King St., Charleston, S. C., Silver Watch, value $50; Alexander Johnson, Esq., Editor Muskateur Pioneer, Muskateur, Minn., Ladies' Enameled Watch, value $150; Samuel Lee, Esq., President Colorado and Red Bank Mining Company, San Francisco, Cal., Melodeon, value $200; Aaron S. Long, Esq., Principal Elkhart Collegiate Institute, Elkhart, N. J., Diamond Pin, value $200, R. M. Long, Jr., Montgomery, Ala., Music Box, value $75; Rev. Isaac Van Duzer, Albany, N. Y., Gold Lined Dining Set, value $300; Mrs. Clara Lucuguer, Dayton, Ohio, Pianoforte, value $400, and Diamond Pin, value $125.

Many names could be placed on the List, but we publish no names without permission. Our patrons are desired to send United States currency, when it is convenient.

AGENTS WANTED EVERYWHERE.

Unequalled inducements offered to Ladies and Gents who will act as such. Our descriptive circulars will be sent on application.

Distributions are made in the following manner:—Certificates naming each article and its value are placed in sealed envelopes, which are well mixed. One of these envelopes containing the Certificate or Order for some article, will be delivered at our office, or sent by mail to any address, without regard to choice, on receipt of 25 cents.

On receiving the certificate the purchaser will see what article it draws, and its value, and can then send ONE DOLLAR, and receive the article named, or can choose any other one article on our list of the same value.

Purchasers of our SEALED ENVELOPES may, in this manner, obtain an article worth from one to five hundred dollars.

Long letters are unnecessary. Have the kindness to write plain directions, and in choosing different articles from those drawn, mention the style desired.

Agents Wanted

FOR THE MOST POPULAR

And Best Selling Subscription Books Published!

WE are the most extensive publishers in the United States, (having six houses,) and therefore can afford to sell books cheaper and pay agents a more liberal commission than any other company.

Our books do not pass through the hands of General Agents, (as nearly all other subscription works do,) therefore we are enabled to give our canvassers the extra per cent. which is usually allowed to General Agents. Experienced canvassers will see the advantage of dealing directly with the publishers.

Our series embraces the most popular works on all subjects of importance, and is selling rapidly both North and South.

Old agents, and all others, who want the best paying agencies, will please send for circulars and see our terms, and compare them and the character of our works with those of other publishers. Address,

ORPHANS' COURT SALE.

IN pursuance of an order of the Orphans' Court of Beaver county, the undersigned will sell at public vendue or outcry, on the premises, on at one o'clock, P. M. the following described property, situate in Chippewa township, Beaver county aforesaid, being the real estate of Horace N. Kennedy, late of Beaver county, deceased:

Beginning at a white oak, thence by lands of John and James Mitchell, north ¼ degrees east 107 perches five-tenths to a heap of stones thence by land of Ethan Thomas north 89¼ degrees west 43 perches to a post; thence by land of the Farmer's & Mechanic's Bank, south ¼ degrees, west 108 perches to a post; thence by land of James Kennedy, north 88 degrees, east 43 perches to a white oak, place of beginning; containing 53 acres and 98 perches strict measure; on which is erected an excellent new frame barn, 52 by 39 feet with threshing floor, 30 by 20 feet mows, &c., and three stables underneath; also a log and frame house with a frame kitchen, and a cellar under part of the house; also a certain other piece of land adjoining the foregoing described tract of land, situate as aforesaid: Beginning at a white oak, thence by land of Richard Walton, south 202 perches to a stake: thence by land of James Kennedy, south 87½ degrees, west 24¼ perches to a white oak; thence by land of John Alexander, north ¼ degree, east 202 perches to a stone, and thence by land of James Scott, north 87½ degrees, east 22½ perches to place of beginning; containing 29 acres 123 perches, strict measure; on which is erected a frame barn 48 by 18 feet.

The above described lands are well fenced except about two acres. Sixty acres are in a fine state of cultivation, and the balance is wood land. There is an excellent young orchard bearing fruit on the premises, consisting of about 160 apple trees, 100 peach trees and some cherry trees

There are also three good springs of never-failing water, and a coal bank opened and in working condition

Back Run passes through a portion of said lands, the north branch of Brady's Run, and there are about twenty acres along said run which is considered excellent oil territory.—There are two oil wells now being put down within half a mile of said premises, and preparations are being made to put down four more in the immediate vicinity

TERMS—One-half of purchase money in hand on confirmation of sale by the Court; balance in two equal, annual payments from that date, with interest thereon from same date; to be secured by bond and mortgage.

Ladies', Gent's, Boy's and Children's Shoes, Gaiters, Slippers, &c.,

direct from the manufacturer's, we are prepared to sell as cheap, if not cheaper, than any establishment in Pittsburg or this county.

As we intend to remain permanently in the business, we will endeavor to always sell as cheap, keep as great a variety and as good an article as the eastern market affords.

Purchasers will do well to call and examine our goods and prices before purchasing elsewhere. All goods warranted.

BARBER.

HAIR-DRESSER, &C.

JAMES BRUIN is happy to announce to his old customers, that he has been discharged from the service of the United States, and opened a shop in the frame building adjoining Wm. Orr's Store. Ladies' hair cut in the most approved style. He trusts his old friends will renew their patronage. Having carried the flag of the 45th Reg. U. S. C. T. for almost a year, in the battles around Petersburg, he thinks himself entitled to a fair share of the public patronage.

He has also opened a branch shop in a room in the north part of the Market House in Bridgewater, which will be kept open at all seasonable hours.

Ladies' and Gentlemen's Hair-cutting and Shampooing promptly attended to, and executed in the most approved style. [jan28'67:1y
